Meet Information

Today's meet is the 107th Annual New England Cross Country Championship, and the 16th combined men's and women's New England Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association Championship. The first men's championship was contested in Brookline, Mass. In 1912. Dartmouth took home the team championship and Norman Taber of Brown was the first individual champion. In 1914, the meet moved to Franklin Park where it has been contested to this day, with a few exceptions. In 2006, history was made as UMass Lowell won the team title, becoming the first Division II team to win. The River Hawks won again in 2008 and 2009. In 2017 Stonehill College became the second Division II to win the Men's title, while New Hampshire women won their second consecutive title. In 2018, Umass/Amherst won its first title since 1987. The Boston College women won their second consecutive title and 7th overall since 1997.
